Family first aid targeted

ST John Ambulance and Target have joined forces to provide a free first aid training course for parents at Target's Bendigo store.

St John Ambulance Australia deputy chief executive Theron Vassiliou said at least one member of every family in Australia should be trained in first aid.

"Providing free first aid training courses through stores such as Target Bendigo is a wonderful opportunity for parents and carers to get a better understanding of how childhood accidents and injuries can be prevented," he said.

"The four-hour first aid course, designed for parents and carers of children aged 0-12 years, covers first aid techniques dealing with choking, fractures, insect bites, child and infant resuscitation, poisoning, burns and scalds."

Target's Bendigo store manager Darren Brown said St John Ambulance delivered a very important service and Target was delighted to be hosting the free training course.

The course will be held from 9.30am on Monday, October 17.

Register by calling St John on 1300 106 499.
